AXA is holding today an Investor conference on its Solvency II position and Capital Management framework

The following are the key financial highlights:

- Solvency II ratio at 212% as at September 30, 2015 under AXA’s internal model which was approved by the ACPR\(^1\) on November 18, 2015
- Solvency II ratio is resilient to a wide range of financial and non-financial shocks
- Clearly defined capital management framework with 170-230% as central target range of Solvency II ratio
- Dividend payout ratio range increased to 45-55% of Adjusted Earnings\(^2,3\)
- Higher annual Operating Free Cash Flow by ca. Euro 0.5 billion under Solvency II resulting from lower Life & Savings new business capital consumption
- Remittance ratio target confirmed at 75-85%

AXA is hosting today an Investor conference in London where Alban de Mailly Nesle, Group CRO and Gérald Harlin, Group CFO will present AXA’s Solvency II position and capital management framework respectively. The event will be introduced and concluded by Denis Duverne, Group Deputy CEO.

"AXA pioneered in developing its internal model in the early 2000s. Over the past decade it has been at the heart of our decision making process, as evidenced by our business mix transformation, asset liability management discipline and judicious capital allocation", said Denis Duverne, Deputy CEO of AXA. "The internal model has informed our strategic choices and risk discipline over a number of years and contributed to the strong and resilient ratio we are presenting today."

"Our Solvency II ratio stands at 212% at the end of the third quarter of 2015. This level is not only robust but also resilient to a wide range of both market and non-market related shocks. With additional certainty on Solvency II ratio, we have defined a clear capital management framework with 170-230% as central target range of Solvency II ratio and have increased our dividend payout ratio range to 45-55%.”

"Going forward, we also expect to create additional free cash flows from our Life & Savings business resulting from lower new business capital consumption. With a high remittance ratio, we are therefore confident of providing attractive dividends to our shareholders and continuing to invest in business growth opportunities and digital transformation initiatives in the future."

The presentation will start at 4:45pm GMT

Live webcast and support documents will be available 4:45pm GMT onwards on AXA website:
